IveyHacks 2023 Silver Prize

Hackathon win

March 2023

London, ON

- My team and I secured second place at IveyHacks, a Hackathon at the prestigious Ivey Business School, where we collaborated with business students to create an app prototype that met the challenge provided by the program sponsor Cyder.
- I learned how to collect, encrypt, and share data while keeping it secure as well as gained insights into the app development process.
- This was my first Hackathon, and I learnt many valuable skills and made long-lasting connections.

University of Toronto - Adventures in science Mentorship program

Volunteer

Sep. 2021 – May 2022

Toronto, ON

- AIS is a community outreach group run by science students at the University of Toronto. They mentor high school students to deliver a fun science lesson to an elementary or middle school class.
- My team and I made an interactive lesson on Artificial Intelligence & Space.
 - I did research and explained difficult AI and Space concepts to my groupmates to create the final video.
 - We covered many topics ranging from AI & Computer Vision to Astronomy and cosmology.
